

Research project 2007/2008

LAW

“Organized crime theoretical analyses and practical implications, with special emphasis on RM”

Coordinator Dr. Bistra Netkova

The Importance of the Project:

Organized crime is a world-wide concern. It is modern type of crime that endangers the fabric of any society. Numerous official reports and academic studies conclude that it is universal in its incidence and, at the same time, particular in its historical and socio-cultural contexts. Organized crime has numerous aspects of which the following will be elaborated in the book: Corruption, money laundering, trafficking in human beings and smuggling of human beings.